Rained out Pro-Am still fun and an economic success

Water on the green cut the AT&T National Pro-Am short this year but it was still an economic boon to the community. The AT&T generally draws 75,000 visitors who generate approximately $38 million in direct and indirect revenue to the community according to Steven A. Nukes & Associates, Management Strategy and Economic Consultants for the Pebble Beach Company.

On Wednesday, January 31, the celebrities not only drew crowds to the 5 hole 3M Celebrity Challenge, but raised funds for charities. Clint Eastwood, who was eliminated on the 3rd hole, raised $2,300 for the Carmel Youth Center. Kevin Costner won the challenge and $6,000 for Haven House, a Southern California shelter for abused women, after a chip off against Glen Campbell on the 18th hole.

The Sun's Report on the Water Board

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) Board of Directors discussed the future of a Dam on the Carmel River at its regular meeting on January 30.

Director Haddad submitted a resolution directing the MPWMD to take no action to enable construction of a new dam. The resolution was non binding and included language that would allow a future board to amend the resolution. Other dam related issues include a request by Cal-Am for the MPWMD to transfer the New Los Padres Dam (NLPD) permits to it and a the State Water Resource Control Board wants to know how or if the MPWMD is going to proceed with the NLPD.

Zan Henson, 5th District Supervisorial candidate, reminded the board that the voters rejected the NLPD on November 7 because they wanted to preserve their lifestyle and community. Director Ernst asked if the $12 million the MPWMD spent in obtaining the permits for the NLPD should be wasted. Mr. Henson responded that the $12 million represented a bad investment and could see no reason to keep throwing

A PLACE IN THE SUN

Virginia Parke

The 2nd Annual "Night at the Old Buckeye" Benefit, Saturday, February 10, 7 P.M. to midnight, sponsored by the Friends of the Carmel Valley Branch Library promises an evening filled with outstanding food and music according to Friends of the Carmel Valley Library organizer, Susan McDonald. "The Friends are sponsoring this benefit in order to raise the $10,000 necessary to keep the library open a fifth day each week through out the year. The Carmel Valley Branch is funded by the Monterey Library system for only four days due to budget cutbacks."

The Friends reflect the community's interest in adapting the County system to the need of local members. They volunteer time and donate money to enhance facilities, services and book collection of the library. They help with shelving and magazine check-in to free professional staff time.

They provide many of the physical comforts such as the oak table used by members for meetings and homework, and comfortable chairs for those wishing to read in the library. They are responsible for the computer system now available to users for research. They contribute an up to-date atlas, magazine subscriptions of particular interest to Valley Library users, and they are responsible for the landscaped patio used for outdoor study and reading.

This year's benefit crew has learned from last year's overwhelming support, according to another of the organizers, Barry Harrow. "We have added a 40` by 60` tent filled with food to insure everyone gets served. Dorothy McEwen, of the Holman Ranch, has enlisted the support of many of the Valley's outstanding restaurants and caterers to provide a splendid buffet banquet and there will be a no host bar serving a full range of beverages."

Honoring the Valentine's Day theme, "Alice" and "The Queen and King of Hearts" appeared at the library from the pages of Lewis Carroll's whimsical story titled "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland". They spent time exploring the wonders of the Carmel Valley Library's many services. Tularcitos students are participating by contributing to the decorations by providing art work based on the theme of "What Valentine's Day Means to Me". The art will be displayed at the library during the event

The building now housing the library was a bar and restaurant before its conversion. In memory of those years legendary Blues artist Stu Heyden and his Blues Persuaders will be the featured performers. Heyden has a CD release and tours nationally. Nan Heflin and Michael McCombs will open for Heyden along with surprise local guest artists.

Tickets for the $15 donation are available at the Carmel Valley Library, Carmel Valley Market, Carmel Valley Business Service and at the door Saturday evening. The event is limited to guests over 21 years of age and includes music and food. Donations are tax deductible.

Correction and Clarification:

Our January 25, 1996 issue erroneously stated that the proceeds from The Village Affair went to the Community Center. In fact, the money raised goes to CVVIC's Pathways projects. The event was held at Los Laureles Lodge, not the Old Buckeye.

This is the best place in the world to live.

TOUCHING BASES

Peter Lyon

How many years ago was it now -- the parking lots of Sunset School were playing fields, the playing fields of Carmel High were hilly ground east of Highway One, Middle School was the Hatton Dairy and artichokes, and as for the CVLL Park, it was river-rock flood plain -- yet kids always knew just exactly which sport should predominate in which season. One magic day the footballs would vanish from the scene to be replaced by basketballs; the basketballs one day would give way to bats and balls and mitts. No one put up a sign or heralded the change in the Carmel Valley Sun; we just knew. Now, of course, we have columns like this one to announce that soon basketballs will indeed give way to bats and balls and mitts, for Little League Season is almost upon us.

How do we know, in the turn of the days when it is time for us once again to welcome the busy days of Little League into our lives, those days of dutiful drives to the ballpark, dewy mornings of T ball at Tularcitos, post-game laundry, and non-negotiable demands for new laser powered Offishul Prostyle deep-dish double-barreled batting gloves? Here in Carmel Valley we have one very clear harbinger of baseball season: Little League Tryouts. Here's the schedule.

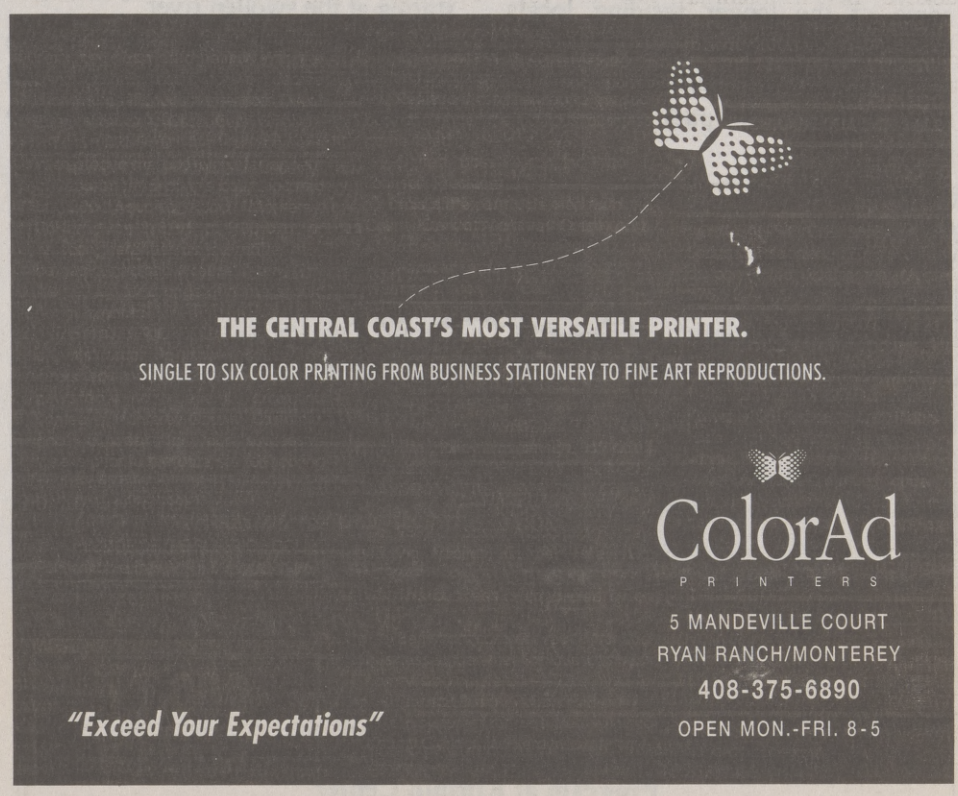
Saturday, February 10 is the first magic day. Please get to the ballpark by 8:30 a.m. so that your player can be registered and given a number on the appropriately colored sheet of paper. Tryouts for 9 and 10 year olds will come first, followed by 11 and 12s. (Remember that Little League age is determined by the child's age as of July 31.) Parents, you might want to bring along some reading material or something else to provide entertainment, particularly if you also bring along younger brothers or sisters. (Please do not bring the family dog. Dogs make good used food collectors but very poor spectators.)

Tryouts are not a fearsome ordeal and are not designed to embarrass anyone. Each prospective player will take ground balls at the four infield positions and make a throw to first or home. Once the infield action is completed, a pitching machine will be set up and players will hit a number of pitches. That's all there is to it. Please remember that the season is not only young, it hasn't even begun yet, and most folks bring some pretty rusty skills down to the ballpark. The managers and coaches are also a bit rusty, and they tend to be quite forgiving. All kids in the tryouts need only to relax and have a good time. As for parents, do be sure to bring your pride and high hopes with you, but keep them as quiet as possible. It helps to remember who is actually trying out and who will actually be out there playing the game.

If February 10 doesn't work out for you, or if it rains heavily, the next tryouts will be held on Saturday, February 17, same time and format. February 24 is set aside as another rain day as well as the Day of the Draft. So while we are speaking of the draft, let's go back a year and quote from an old Touching Bases column (it's always fun to quote one's self): "The purpose of the draft is to provide balance on the teams in so far as that is possible. Managers, like parents, are human. Managers do not draft players in order to lose games, and parents do not encourage their players into the tryouts in order to be disappointed. The system cannot, therefore, please everyone, and for a few very deserving young people, the draft is a chill wind that blows no good. If you have a player who was not drafted to a level you deem appropriate, please do these three things. First, provide enormous quantities of love and encouragement (and keep some for yourself; you are a good parent). Second, encourage your child to practice with the team to which he or she is assigned. That way, your player will have a great advantage when the possibility arises to be drafted up during the season. (Little League rules give a manager the option of releasing a player who does not show up for practice.) Third, call Jaime Warren, the player agent, and present your concerns. If you have hard evidence of unfairness, discuss those concerns with him before they are bruited about the community. And finally, we are forever looking for people who will serve on the board, who will coach, who will volunteer time to make our CVLL as close to baseball in paradise as we can get. Come join us."

One of the helpful ways you can join us is to sponsor a team or purchase billboard space along the outfield fences. We have some particularly good deals on both this year; please contact Wendy Thomas at 659-5292.

See you at the ball field.



FUN IN THE SUN

Around the valley this time of year some of the longer residing locals have a tradition which calls for us all to wander down to the nearest bridge after a big rain, park our trucks alongside the banks and stand around staring at the swollen river.

This ritual usually occurs in the mornings after a night's hard rain, and requires those of us who participate to gather, in the light of the storm's showery aftermath on the Garzas or Esquiline bridges. Floppy old rain hats and mud boots are required and hot coffee takes the place of conversation. Children are encouraged to attend.

I think we all do this just as a way of checking in with each other, you know, kinda like hanging out at the post office, or maybe Sunday mornings at the Runnin' Iron. This whole scene has been going on as long as I can remember, this morning, after a pause in life to acknowledge the forces that be, I like to think of it as a rendering to the weather gods, this respectful moment out of our busy days that we offer up in recognition of the things we cannot control.

Major kudos to the local gang at Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee, those good folks who do such an outstanding job with the village pathways and landscaping projects, for putting on one of the best Village Affairs ever. The food was outrageous, the wine absolutely incredible, and ... my favorite part ... they had beer this time. (Ya gotta wash it down with something, and that wonderful Cloninger cabernet was just too perfect not to sip...)

The silent auction items were excellent (my personal favorite, that collectionof "killer pine tree" seedlings donated by Sun publisher, Norman Spaulding) and the talents of live auctioneer Pete DeVries were a special treat indeed. Didn't actually buy anything myself and I let Randy out bid me on the night at Tickle Pink, just as I had done to him last year.

An now rumor has it that CVVIC ha s been sub-contracted by Cal Am, "We don't do asphalt") and is going to take all that pathways money they raised at the Village Affair and use it to fix the pipeline pavement on the eastbound Carmel Valley Road. Please? I mean, anything would be better than...Hey, got a better idea...in lieu of paying our water bills this month, Cal Am should offer us locals a work day on the pipeline, wherein we all get to take turns standing around down there at Rancho Canada, moving cones back and forth and help lay the new asphalt patch by stomping on it and drinking coffee. And I wanna play with that red flag, too.

Yes, it's deja vu all over again, as the Carmel Valley Friends of the Library present the second annual "Night At The Old Buckeye", to benefit the Carmel Valley Branch Library. This most excellent evening of fun, food, frolic, live music and dance will be held this Saturday, the 10th of February at the Valley library, from 7 p.m. until midnight.

Event organizer and Carmel Valley Community Center volunteer Barry "Benz" Harrow, who claims that he was under legal drinking age when the original Buckeye opened, tells us the evening will feature the musical talents of the legendary Stu Heydon and the Blues Pretenders, plus Nan Heflin and Michael McCombs.

Food for the evening will be provided by local restaurants, including Will's Fargo, Plaza Linda, Summer House, The Running Iron, Solo Mio, Oak Deli and many others. Local wineries Bernardus, Joulian Vineyards and Chateu Julien Winery will contribute to the no-host bar. Get there early for the best food.

Everyone who attended last year and remembers the fund of keeping that red wine off the library carpet will be glad to hear that a large tent will be used this time around, allowing everybody even more room to wander with even more wine glasses. Tickets are available at the Carmel Valley Library, Carmel Valley Market, Carmel Valley Business Service, and at the door the night of the event. Your tax deducatble $15. donation includes music and food. Oh, and Barry sez: 21 and over only, please. So ya might not see Jeff Davi there.

AS THE RIVER RUNS
Norman Spaulding

The last time you looked, water was running down hill, down stream and down river along Mother Nature's course to the sea.

What is not visible to the human eye is the water that does not go down to the sea, but trickles down through the earth into what we now call aquifers.

When Cal-Am or a land owner digs a well, they are raiding Mother Nature's secret store of fresh water. the aquifers hold a finite amount of water. There is no Lake Superior or Mississippi River hidden beneath Carmel Valley. If the rain water does not roll down hill, it will not end up in the aquifers.

Randy Randazzo's letter to the Sun made the same common sense observation. Using common sense, Randy questioned how 350 homes with 2 to 5 acres of landscaped land, a water intensive golf course, plus a large tourist lodge complex, and housing for hundreds of workers, would have zero impact on Carmel Valley's water supply, if the Rancho San Carlos (Santa Lucia Preserve) is built.

Randazzo and his Valley supporters also point to the increased traffic flow at one of the Valley's worst intersections - Carmel Valley Road and San Carlos Road. The blind sweeping uphill intersection is among the worst possible designs according to standard CalTrans engineering design specifications.

Certainly, all of the water that falls on Oppenheimer's ranch does not flow down hill into the Carmel Valley. Certainly the Chicago developers of the project have made significant efforts to make their project palatable to the locals - regular mailings of their own newspaper, direct information to your county supervisors, and efforts to press their interests before state agencies - and heavy public relations efforts.

Struggling to show a profit from the upscale, ultra-low density development, the development at Rancho San Carlos comes up on the cheap and greedy side in several areas.

One, failure to follow the excellent Pebble Beach Company example to recycle water for golf course and landscape watering.

Two, failure to provide and pay for a safe, non-frontal tunnel at the intersection of San Carlos Road and Carmel Valley Road, better than the one at Robinson Canyon, to provide a smooth flow of traffic in all directions. There is a need for two tunnels - northbound San Carlos Road to westbound Carmel Valley Road and a left turn tunnel from Carmel Valley Road to San Carlos Road.

Three, the concept of the Santa Lucia "Preserve" has been presented in a manner that has given many people the false impression that 14,000 acres might be public open space. In fact, the "Preserve" will be a gated, guarded, exclusive, natural park for use by owners only. San Carlos Road has already been gated.

The developers should cease to presume that the Carmel Valley community will stand-by while the Rancho San Carlos developers proceed with a project to dump their lodge, employee and resident traffic and sewage into Carmel Valley, especially when there are simple cost effective methods to solve these problems.

The basically fine development project has played cheap, by meeting minimum county traffic and sanitation standards. They have played loose in trying to aggrandize the project and minimize the project's impact.

The need to be trying to set an environmental standard that is higher than Pebble Beach, Stonepine or Quail Lodge, by installing complete water treatment facilities for each of 70 "clusters" of estates, the lodge and employee housing, recycle water and zero chemicals for any golf course, and a high quality undercut intersection at Carmel Valley Road.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

Will Gorbachev be asked to come back? He wanted the Soviets to adopt a more moderate change toward democracy. Got out just in time. Now, they know he was right. Democracy is simply not working in Russia. Crime at all levels is out of control. Their 30,000 per year murder rate is even worse than our 25,000 and their economy, ruined by the Cold war, like ours was, faces a very uncertain future, maybe worse than ours.

Yeltsin seems to have trouble getting to the office, and made a bad mistake trying to be the Russian Abraham Lincoln, hoping to keep the Chechnians from seceding, which leaves the door wide open for a hard line candidate who leans toward a more communist form of government. I expect all of our anti-communist paranoids are delighted with the prospect of getting our main communist target back, so we can spruce up our missile defenses and our interference proof orbiting bomb systems.

Meanwhile, China has no intention of letting their island of Taiwan continue its capitalism, so we'll have to start building up Taiwan's defenses, and I suppose we'll have to transfer some of the troops we have in Japan and Europe to Taiwan. Without going any farther, it looks like we will need a very wealthy President, here in the U.S., if we have to raise our military budget.

I'm betting on Forbes. When asked about his wealth, he just says he was "blessed", which may have something to do with his "all out" opposition to abortions, which should guarantee him all of the church-going vote. His insistence on a "flat tax" will get him 100 percent backing by the over $100,000 group." I don't think anybody else will have a chance.

Amongst other good news, there is a report that our C.I.A., which, for some reason, always reminds me of the Laurel and Hardy movies, somehow misplaced $1 billion of their $30 billion yearly allotment. It's easy to do. If you misplaced 20 cents of your $3 in pocket change, you probably wouldn't notice it. Actually, I've never seen $2 billion, but it's quite a bit of money. Strung out in a row of one dollar bills, it would be long enough to wrap around our planet eight times. I suppose it would be difficult for an average person to misplace that much money.

Praise and Thanks

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

The other night my husband and I had occasion to call for help from the Carmel Valley Fire Department. From the dispatcher to the follow up the day after the fire, we have nothing but praise. The firemen arrived within 3 minutes. They were efficient, considerate and above all successful in extinguishing the fire.

We have always loved living in Carmel Valley. After nights like last Monday, I am convinced we are in the best place. Our neighbors on both sides and across the street offered comfort and support in a frightening ordeal. One neighbor even climbed on the roof with my husband helping in any way possible.

We feel extremely fortunate to live in a community where we know our neighbors' names. You hear so many stories of people living side by side for years and never even saying hello to their neighbor.

So, thank you everyone for your help and support. It continues to comfort.

Claims reporting was one-sided

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

The Herald, (1-29-96, page 2) newspaper purports to be "both accurate and fair". Yet, two articles (one being the lead story across the top of the front page) provide clear evdience such claim is just hollow rhetoric when it comes to the largest development ever proposed on the physical Monterey Peninsula. A development that would destroy one of, if not, the healthiest remaining natural Monterey pine forests - both extremely serious issues.

The two articles on the false premise that "golf courses may help preserve environment" is a concept that is rejected by all serious biological science. It is solely supported by golf course developers and the biositiutes they hire.

Did the Herald write this article or did Pebble Beach Company? It is sad that Pebble Beach Company land managers do not attempt the same level of world class results as the Pebble Beach Company Public Relations Department.

I have received seven phone calls so far ranging from disgust to fury at the biased articles with Alex Hulanicki's name on it

I say biased without fear of honest contradiction.

1) No opposing view was sought at all, let alone expert opinion. None of the following leading experts were consulted. All would clearly have provided an opposing view and all are experts who know you personally, have done so in the past, each was no farther than a local phone call away - Corky Matthews, Jud Vandevere, myself, and Linda Smith.

2) The article makes no reference to the thousands of acres of forest and wildlife habitat destroyed so far and the further hundreds of acres of world class forest proposed for destruction by golf course contruction in Pebble Beach, yet it plays up the relatively trivial "threats to the enivronment" of creating trails on hillsides and dogs running in sand dunes.

3) The article fails to ask if Mr. Yadon has been, or is currently, a paid consultant to Pebble Beach Company, yet quotes him as an expert seemingly without conflict of interest.

4) The article fails to mention how Pebble Beach Company itself destroyed the sand dunes at Spanish Bay yet, it plays up the disreputable "restoration of the sand mining area at Spanish Bay with a golf course."

5) The article describes Pebble Beach Company Vice-president Ted Horton as wincing at the thought of a photographer walking on a sand dune, yet failed to ask the obvious journalism 101 question, "Why don't you wince at the thought of destroying hundreds of acres of critical breeding forest for the endangered Monterey Pine?"

6) The article advertises Spanish Bay golf course as certified by Audubon Society of New York State, yet fails to say there is no connection to the Audubon Society we all know and respect, in fact there was a lawsuit between the two over the name.

7) Open Space is radically different than natural areas, yet the article allows them to be equated by the unchallenged quote of Ted Horton, "A

Got Ideas about WATER?

Let's hear them!!

Express your ideas at a public discussion of community water supply goals and alternatives.

Thursday, February 8, 1996
6:30 PM - 9:30 PM
Oldemeyer Center, Seaside

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District encourages the public to participate in a study session to talk about community water supply goals and proposals to meet our water supply needs. Issues to discuss and explore include:

- What are the community's water supply goals?
- What water supply alternatives make sense for the Peninsula?
- What is the best course of action to develop water supply options?

This is the second of two meetings conducted to encourage public participation and dialog on the formulation of an action plan to implement water supply alternatives that address the Monterey Peninsula's water needs. A brief overview of ideas proposed by the public at the first meeting conducted on January 24 will also be presented.

golf course is probably the single largest open space use that pays for itself."

8) The article fails to mention the study by the New York Attorney General's office. New York State was so concerned about golf course pesticides getting in drinking water they commissioned a study in 1991 and 1994 called "Toxic Fairways."

It found golf course pesticides contaminate groundwater even when used properly (according to label directions). Page 11 says "According to a 1991 report on pesticides in groundwater by the GAO, at least six of the pesticides used by Long Island Golf Courses are already known to be capable of contaminating groundwater after normal applications following label directions. These 6 pesticides accounted for 22.6 percent of the pesticides used by the 52 golf courses in the study.

Since this is such a hugely misleading article on such a serious subject, a simple listing of corrections would be wholly inadeqate. I request a whole new story, of the same size and position, disclosing those facts overlooked in the Herald's January 29th story; correct misleading and incorrect facts and solicit and quote opposing points of view.

The idea of a "flat" income tax brings to mind the gag Form 1040 which only has two lines: "How much did you earn?" on line 1, and "Send it to us" on line 2. That's simple, and so is the flat tax at first glance. For a family of four, Form 1040 may read, "How much did you earn?" on line 1, "Subtract $36,000" on line 2, "Multiply by 17" on line 3, and "Send it to us" on line 4. It would certainly save a lot of trees.

The flat tax was cycling in my personal RAM until a friend declared I would pay more income tax under the flat tax than I pay now. Actually, I wouldn't, because some of our taxable income is interest and dividends - not taxed under the current flat tax proposals. At my age freebies like that are nice, but a devilish whisper tells me the penalty will be higher premiums for Medicare benefits when I become a Senior Citizen.

Anticipating the "Yeah, but..." reply from my friend, I tried the flat tax on families of four in my client files. It turns out that each situation is unique, and some situations are more unique than others. For the family which nets $501,157 out of their business, 1995 federal tax (not including Self Employment Tax) was only $154,347. Under the proposed flat tax, the bill would be $79,077. Guess how they will vote...

The 1995 tax for the entrepreneur who lives on stock dividends from the foreign companies he formed, was $37,284 on $190,400 gross, $57,000 taxable after exemptions and allowances. Under the flat tax rules he would pay nothing.

The engineer and his school teacher wife grossed $88,000 and paid a federal tax on $58,628 of $11,346. Under the proposed flat tax they would pay $8,840.

The lumber yard foreman and his wife, the part-time receptionist, grossed $50,528 and paid a federal tax on $32,504 of $4,876. Under the flat tax they would pay $2,470.

Let's say there's a family of four which grosses $36,000 in wages and another $1,100 from interest. They would be taxed on $20,607 and pay $3,091 federal income tax. Under the flat tax they would pay nothing.

I found a few cases where the flat tax would be significantly more. One was an oil engineer overseas who paid $11,280 federal tax on $58,185 taxable income from $141,978 gross. Under the proposed flat tax his bill would be $18,016. On a smaller scale, there's the college dean who paid $2,910 on $19,398 taxable from earnings of $56,500. His flat tax bill would be $3,315.

For those who pencil out their own score under the proposed flat tax and vote accordingly, there's that old saying, "You get what you pay for." Flat tax revenues won't pay for as many government benefits and services; estimates project a drop in federal tax revenues of $40 billion to $200 billion. This will highlight the lingering tension between democratic and capitalistic impulses concerning "redistribution of wealth". Under the flat tax, there isn't any. Those who are already wealthy would surely win the game, and we don't know if the new rules can serve as an incentive for the rest of our country's citizens to play. What do you think?

Holman Ranch's McEwen to be featured on "Dream Living"

Dorothy McEwen, owner of the 400 acre Holman Ranch and Equestrian Center in Carmel Valley, is the focus of a half-hour program to be featured on the Learning Channel.

The show will air this fall as part of an ongoing series on "Dream Living".

The show highlights the results of Ms. McEwen's project to restore the main house, guest cottages and other unique aspects of the original facility, including a game room, theater, pool and poolhouse. The other area of focus for the show is the modern equestrian center that Ms. McEwen has created. It features a state-of-the-art riding arena and stables, as well as a full complement of horse related activities, from riding and roping lessons to trail rides that criss-cross the Ranch property.

The Learning Channel is a division of Discovery Networks. The "Dream Living" series is produced by Film Garden Entertainment of Studio City. The executive producer is Nancy Lyon. This segment, which will air in the fall, was the last of 24 that were taped in 1995.

money into it. Mr. Henson told the board that they must first clearly define water needs before pursuing new projects. Chair Burkleo said the MPWMD was not in the business of land use. Mr. Henson responded, "To say that water has nothing to do with land use is ludicrous."

Larry Foy, Cal-Am president, asked the MPWMD to keep the NLPD permits and documentation current because future alternatives may involve the Carmel River watershed and the NLPD information and permits are valuable to the community.

Director Pendergrass said "We have spent all this money and have EPA approval. We have a 404 permit. How dare you say we [not pursue] a dam." Director Pendergrass further said that those who voted against the dam suffered from a "philosophical point of difference".

Director Haddad was asked if he though the NLPD permits had no value and should just be scrapped. Haddad responded "If we transfer the permits we should ask for an offer from Cal-Am. I will not approve a permit transfer without financial compensation on our $12 million investment."

Director Karas said that when the MPWMD began to pursue a dam it did not anticipate the closure of Fort Ord or the proposed Rancho San Carlos, Montera Ranch and Pebble Beach developments whose water is not expected to be supplied by Cal-Am. Karas said "I support this resolution because the people have said no [to a dam]. I think every city should be forced to re-evaluate its land use plan because they are all out of date and the water demand is not as great as we think."

Chair Burkleo said "I wanted to be on this board to build a dam. I have suffered through rationing and will pursue a dam on or off this board. Just because the voters did not approve the financing doesn't mean we have to give up the dam."

The resolution directing the MPWMD to take no action to enable construction of a new dam was defeated by a 5-2 vote; Directors Haddad and Karas dissenting.

The discussion on Cal-Am's request to transfer NLPD permits and the request by the State Water Resource Control Board regarding future action of the MPWMD on the NLPD were deferred to the regular February meeting after the second public study session on alternatives. The public study session on water supply alternatives will be held on February 8 at 6:30 pm at the Oldemeyer Center in Seaside.

The next regular MPWMD meeting will be held on February 29 at 7:00 pm at the Monterey City Council Chambers.
